

BOSEONG CHEONG WOO TEA PLANTATION

A plantation making tea with a depth of flavor through the winds from the sea and in the misty valleys of the mountains.

OUR BUSINESS

---

- Mongjungsan Mountain, whose topography characterized by generations of the sea breeze and misty air are conducive to tea trees, cultivating a depth of flavor in the resulting tea.
  - A key player for not only green and black teas but also in the development of ingredients with distinctly Korean traits such as magnolia, mugwort, and others.

Our tea plantation is located at the base of Mongjungsan Mountain, which is host to the largest area of tea fields in Korea. We produce quality teas through closely supervised, eco-friendly cultivation across 14 hectares of tea fields.

Mongjungsan Mountain's topographical feature of trapping in wind from the ocean and sustaining fog for extended periods has long made this area exceptionally advantageous for the growth of tea trees, resulting in tea that is deep in both taste and character.

While our traditional green and black tea lines are a strength, recent inquiries from overseas buyers looking to purchase raw materials with a pronounced Koreanness such as magnolia and mugwort teas have led to greater efforts to develop our products even further.

OUR PRODUCTS

Our organically cultivated, handmade green teas (incl. ujeon, sejak, houji, tea bags) and black teas are systematically categorized into standard and premium lines.
